SUMMARY:

The Government Street Regional Stormwater Pond at Corinne Jones Park Project is a proposed 2.75 acre stormwater pond project to be constructed on the City of Pensacola's Corinne Jones Park property. In addition, stormwater collection and conveyance systems will be installed within the adjacent City right-of-way to route currently untreated stormwater to this pond for treatment and controlled discharge. Also, various streets within the area of the pond facility will receive a new asphalt surface and Government Street between Clubbs Street and Coyle Street will be completely removed and totally reconstructed to eliminate historic standing water issues within the roadway and will include new on-street parallel parking and enhanced streetscape amenities. Finally, in contrast to traditional stormwater facilities, the project will incorporate functional and aesthetic public amenities similar to those in the recently constructed Admiral Mason Stormwater Park. These amenities will include enhanced LED lighting, walking paths, benches, extensive landscaping, passive lawn areas, a new basketball court and a revamped playground facility. This project's bid alternates include installation of stormwater pre-treatment units, a basketball court, and installation of additional stormwater infrastructure to more effectively route stormwater to the new facility.
